Citizens of Milan,

On Thursday, March 12th Governor Bill Lee declared a state of emergency in Tennessee. Governor Lee said that this was an important next step in the state's efforts to treat and mitigate the impact of the coronavirus on the citizens of Tennessee. The City Government of Milan is taking preliminary action to protect the citizens of our community. You will begin to notice signs on all municipal buildings asking for you to call before you enter if you have flu like symptoms. Our Senior Citizen Center and Library will be the first to close if the virus surfaces in the surrounding area. We will be asking our City employees to remain at home if they become ill with flu like symptoms.

We ask the citizens to monitor our social media sites for updates and if they have specific concerns regarding treatment or medical information to please call the Gibson County Health Department at 731-855-7601. We ask that all citizens follow all CDC guidelines regarding handwashing, social distancing, travel and attending large gatherings.

The health and safety are of the utmost concern for all our citizens and I ask that all be calm and patient as we work through this crisis.

Mayor BW Beasley
